

ARCHBISHOP'S CATHOLIC APPEAL

Now more than ever, people need to know there's something more to life. They need to know there's good news for them. They need to know that "something more" for which they're yearning is more than a something; it's a Someone. Now more than ever, people need to know the life-changing love and hope of Jesus Christ.

There's power in Hope. It transforms tears into trust, loneliness and loss into comfort and joy, anxiety and fear into contentment and courage. Hope redefines our failures. It gives you the confidence to KNOW your life won't end in emptiness. Jesus is Love's answer to our Hope.

On this Feast of the Divine Mercy, I'm asking you to share your Hope. YOU have the power to help transform lives. One single generous moment can make all the difference. Please prayerfully consider making a sacrificial gift next weekend for the good of our friends, our neighbors, and our own families. Together, we can spread the life-giving message of the mercy of Jesus Christ to those who need it the most. This is your mission. This is my mission. This is our mission together, and now is our time.

I want you to know I'm very excited about the future of the Archdiocese – because our future is rooted in the Hope and Love of Jesus Christ – and Jesus Changes Everything.

I am grateful for you, In His love,
Archbishop Sample
